
🚩 Midnight Racing League – Race 3 Recap: Kansas Speedway 🚩

The Midnight Racing League's third race of the season at Kansas Speedway was a thrilling spectacle, filled with drama and intense competition. Aaron Stanton claimed the victory, leading 12 laps and proving to be a contender late in the race.

Pole Winner: Colton "Hunty" Ward set the pace early, claiming the pole with a time of 30.593.

Race Overview:

The race consisted of 134 laps, with no overtime. A total of 9 different drivers led the field, exchanging the lead a whopping 16 times over the course of the event. Despite a smooth start, the race was marred by 9 cautions, which slowed the pace for 11 laps and dramatically reshaped the running order.

Dominant Driver: Jeffery Goodpaster looked to have the most dominant truck, leading a race-high 47 laps. However, disaster struck as he was involved in a wreck that ultimately took him out of contention, ending his hopes for victory.

Pit Road Confusion & Rule Changes:

Unfortunately, pit road confusion caused headaches for many drivers and even ruined some races. As a result, MRL has implemented new rules to prevent similar issues in the future. These rule changes have been posted on Discord, and all drivers are encouraged to review them. The entire MRL admin staff sincerely apologizes for the confusion and appreciates everyone's patience as we work to improve race operations.

Notable Incidents:

The race was also a tough one for many big-name drivers, including points leader Jamie DeVeau, who was involved in an accident. Connor Leech, Nicholas and Andrew Rattell, Sam Pawlicki, and Robert Wilhoite all faced unfortunate exits, making it a challenging race for the front-runners.

In the end, Aaron Stanton held strong to claim the win, while a mix of drivers who had been competitive throughout the event fell victim to the chaos.

Race Stats:

- Weather: 78°F
- Total Cautions: 9 for 11 laps
- Lead Changes: 16
- Leaders: 9

🚩 Up Next: Charlotte Motor Speedway 🚩

Join us next week as we take on Charlotte Motor Speedway for some fast, under-the-lights racing! It's sure to be another action-packed event, and we can't wait to see you all on track.

Thank you to all who showed up and sorry for all the confusion that last night brought.